

PLANS COMPLETED FOR CHARITY WEEK

Will Be Observed by Association in This City From Nov. 18-23—Contributions to be Solicited.

NEEDY FAMILIES ASSISTED

Arrangements Are Being Made for the Annual Distribution of the Thanksgiving Baskets This Year.

The charity organization in this city is making arrangements for its annual charity week from November 18 to 23. Charity week is usually observed the first week in November but because of the election and other events, which were of public interest, it was postponed this year until the third week in the month.

This is the time set aside by the organization for subscriptions in order that the work might be carried on during the winter months when the greatest number of demands for assistance are received. During the summer months quite a number of families have been assisted by the charity workers and already additional requests are being filed with the organization. It is expected that the annual Thanksgiving baskets will be distributed this year as heretofore and it is the desire of the officers of the organization to provide for the baskets as generously as possible.

The association held a meeting a short time ago and made arrangements for charity week. A number of the ladies, who are interested in the work, will ask for subscriptions at that time and will appreciate any contributions which are made. The charity association has done a great work in Seymour in recent years and fuel and provisions have been provided for many families who were visited by sickness and other unfortunate circumstances.

There are several families in the city who will be dependent upon the organization for at least part of the winter, and the officers, after an investigation, have found these families worthy and are anxious to do what they can for them. There is one case in the city where the husband has been ill for several months and his wife has accepted almost any kind of employment in order to pay the rent and furnish their five children with food during the summer. It will be almost impossible for her to make sufficient money to purchase coal for the cold winter months and the association expects to help them. At another place a widow is making every effort to provide a home for her three children, but by hard work has been able to supply the children with food during the summer. It is probable that she will not be able to provide winter clothing for her children and it is of course necessary that the charity association look after them. There are several other families in needy circumstances.

No assistance is given to any family by the association until an investigation has been made and it is found that the people making the request are worthy but are victims of misfortune. In a few instances the families assisted were helped by the township trustee, but the amount allowed by law is so small that it will not go very far towards providing for the necessities of life, especially where the family is large.

The charity organization in the city is in charge of competent officers and any money contributed will be used to the very best advantages.

WORK ON OIL WELL RESUMED

Drillers Return After Election and Trouble With Drill is Repaired.

The work on the test oil well, which is being drilled two and one-half miles south of Crothersville, was delayed this week because the drillers returned to their homes to vote. Some trouble with the drill has also caused some delay, but the work has started again with new vigor.

The drillers experienced very little trouble during the first one hundred feet, but at that depth they struck lime stone in which they worked about eight days and nights and only reached a depth of two hundred and fifty feet. At this point they had some trouble with the drill and it was necessary to send to Bridgeport, Illinois, for a rope cutter before the work could proceed. This caused a delay of about two days. The drillers worked all day Sunday in removing the drill. Since the work has resumed the drill has gone down about twenty-five feet, but as the slate and shale stratas have been reached the work will progress more slowly. S. A. Sarver, who owns the machinery, expresses confidence that oil will be found in paying quantities.

PENNSYLVANIA CHANGES

Ernest W. Peters Resigns Position as Ticket Clerk.

Several changes will become effective at the local P. C. C. & St. L. offices Monday caused by the resignation of Ernest W. Peters as ticket clerk. He has accepted a position as agent for the Prudential Insurance Company and will succeed J. E. McKinney who left today for the South. Mr. Peters has been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Company for over eight years and for the past four years has been ticket agent. He has served his company well and upon the receipt of his resignation was sent an excellent letter expressing appreciation for the services given and wishing him success in his new field.

Mr. Peters' resignation has resulted in several other changes. He will be succeeded by Stanley Switzer, who for several years, has been the efficient and competent cashier at the freight house. Erbin Hoffmeyer, who has been bill clerk will succeed Mr. Switzer as cash clerk, and Ed Perkinson, car clerk, will advance to the position of bill clerk. Logan Largent, baggage master at the passenger station, will be promoted to the position formerly held by Mr. Perkinson. Mr. Largent will be succeeded temporarily by Earl Amick.

From the point of service Mr. Peters was the oldest man in the employ of the Pennsylvania Lines here, with the exception of Andy Frey, who has been car inspector for many years. Since his service began with the company Mr. Frey has witnessed many changes and all of the present employees have been employed during his service with the company.

ELECT OFFICERS FOR ASSOCIATION

Judge O. H. Montgomery Chosen First President of the Chautauqua Organization.

DIRECTORS ARE SELECTED

Articles of Incorporation Are Being Prepared—Contract for Talent Next Summer is Closed.

The organization of the chautauqua association was completed at the meeting Friday night and the officers elected for the coming year. The chautauqua is now an assured success and the campaign for additional stock will begin with greater zeal than ever. It was decided to capitalize the association at $2,500 and half of this amount has already been subscribed. It is believed that little difficulty will be experienced in obtaining the balance of the stock as quite a large number of people who are interested in the movement have been waiting to subscribe until the organization was completed and the officers elected.

At the meeting Friday night Judge O. H. Montgomery was elected president; B. F. Schneek vice-president; Clark B. Davis secretary and C. D. Billings treasurer. The directors of the association are H. T. Bennett, Will Clark, C. H. Wiethoff, J. B. Thompson, Carl Switzer, Charles Kessler, Harry McColgin, Oscar Carter and Alpha Cox.

The officers held a meeting this morning and drew up the articles of incorporation and arrangements were made for incorporating under the laws of the state. It is the intention to place the association upon a permanent basis and to hold a chautauqua each year. The program for the first series of entertainments next spring has already been arranged with the Redpath Lyceum Bureau and the contract was closed this morning. The program is unusually strong and not a single complaint has been made against any of the numbers. It is believed that sufficient tickets can be sold to defray the expenses of the entertainment and should this be the case the money subscribed for the stock will not be used this year but will be held in reserve. By this plan the chautauqua is placed upon a firmer basis and the very best of talent can be readily secured.

Several people living outside of the city are manifesting considerable interest in the movement and have taken quite a number of subscriptions among the residents of the township and in the surrounding towns. Because of the location of Seymour and because a chautauqua has never been given in this immediate vicinity, it is expected that quite a number of outside people will attend some of the entertainments and an effort will be made to sell season tickets in the surrounding towns.

Do not fail to see the imported Japanese novelties at the bazaar of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church. These novelties are beautiful and attractive and more reasonable than can be obtained elsewhere.

REQUIRED TO FILE TRUE STATEMENTS

Corrupt Practice Act Provides That Candidates Must Make Public All Campaign Expenditures.

HEAVY PENALTY FOR FAILURE

Treasurers or Political Agents of all Party Are Also Required to Make an Accounting.

The corrupt practice act provides that the candidates on the county ticket shall file a true and correct itemized statement of all their expenditures during the campaign with the clerk of the circuit court within thirty days after the election. The statute also provides that the candidates on the judicial tickets living in this county, shall file a similar statement with the clerk. Under the law the treasurer or political agent of each of the political parties is required to file a statement giving a detailed account of all the money expended for political purposes for the party which he represents. Under the provisions of the law the treasurers are allowed but twenty days after the election to file the statements.

The corrupt practice act is somewhat strict in its requirements and specifies just how the statements shall be made. The blank form for making the account can be secured from the county clerk and already a few of the statements have been obtained. Every statement must be sworn to and bear the seal of a notary public or other officer authorized to administer an oath.

Section 8 of the act provides that a full, true and itemized statement in writing shall be made in duplicate setting forth in detail all moneys or other valuable things contributed or promised by him to aid and promote, or in any way in connection with the nomination or election, and for other political purposes in connection with the election of any other person at said election, and that all existing unfulfilled promises or liabilities in that connection remaining uncancelled and in force at the time such statement is made. Under the law no person shall be deemed elected to any elective office under the laws of this state or enter upon the duties thereof or receive any salary therefrom until he shall have filed the statement. No officer is authorized, by the laws of the state, to issue commissions or certificates to any persons claiming to be elected to any such office until such statement is properly filed.

Any person violating or failing to comply with the act is deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $300 nor more than $2000 and imprisoned for not more than one year or may be fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court. The law provides that ten days after the time has expired for filing such statement and the law has not been complied with the prosecutor of the county shall be notified and within fifteen days thereafter shall proceed to prosecute for such offense.

Any wilful false statement or entry made by any candidate in filing his report shall constitute the crime of perjury and may be punished according to the laws of the state.

The treasurer or political agent of each party is also required to file a statement of all expenditures, gifts and liabilities and upon failure to do so may be fined from $300 to $1000 to which may be added a sentence in the county jail not to exceed one year. In all about fifty affidavits will be filed in this county.

SAFETY FIRST COMMITTEE

J. W. Coon, assistant to general manager of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, with headquarters at Baltimore, has become chairman of the General Safety Committee of the Baltimore and Ohio-Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton System. Mr. Coon entered upon the discharge of his new duties on November 1, succeeding A. Hunter Boyd, Jr., assistant general attorney, who has been chairman of the safety boards since the inauguration of the "Safety First" campaign but whose term had expired under the organization. There is no other change in the personnel of the General Safety Committee, the other members in addition to Messrs. Coon and Boyd being C. W. Egan, general claim agent; Earl Stinson, engineer of maintenance of way; Dr. J. E. Tearney, chief medical examiner, and John Hair, special representative of the mechanical department.

C. Richards, general claim agent of the Chicago & North-Western Railroad. A. W. Thompson, vice-president in charge of operation, is chairman ex-officio of the safety committees. Divisional safety committees are organized on each division as auxiliaries of the general committee. The membership of the divisional committee is composed of local officials and employees, including the superintendent (chairman), trainmaster, train dispatcher, agent of terminals, medical examiner, secretary of railroad branches of the Young Men's Christian Association, shopman representing the shop employees, engineer of fireman representing engine men, conductor or brakemen representing trainmen and yardmen representing that branch of the service.

Merit Will Tell.

A half century ago in a Massachusetts town Rice & Hutchins commenced in a small way to make shoes, good shoes, good shoes only. They put their name on them and stood back of them. The people bought and found they got better service than they had been getting—Result constant patronage. Presently they had to enlarge their factory in order to turn out more shoes for which they had found a demand, this demand increased until today they operate eight large factories making shoes for every member of the family. The people are so used to being cheated that when they find an honest man they make him rich. Rice & Hutchins became rich and the business they founded is of the greatest in history.

HOOSIER LADS ARE LEAVING THE FARM

Indiana Commission Comes to This Conclusion After Making an Investigation.

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE MADE

Declares That The Course of Study is Directed too Much Towards College Preparation.

Indianapolis, November 9.—Something must be done to check the flow of young people from the farms to the cities of Indiana and the state must assume its responsibilities in establishing a thorough system of vocational education for the benefit of the farm population and the industrial population of the cities.

This is the conclusion of the Indiana commission for the investigation of the needs of the state for industrial and agricultural schools.

A preliminary draft of the recommendations and findings of the commission was distributed among the delegates to the Indiana Association of City and Town Superintendents, which closed its convention in Indianapolis today.

The commission was created by an act of the legislature two years to investigate the problem.

A lengthy report was filed by the commission and the matter will be presented to the next legislature. It was reported that Indiana has been transformed from an agricultural state to a manufacturing state. The commission found the vocational needs only meagerly supplied by general courses in manual training, domestic science and agriculture.

A BIG FALLING OFF IN BALLOT

Vote in Indiana 70,000 Short of Four Years Ago.

ILLEGAL VOTING RESTRAINED

Heavy Slump in Vote Believed to Be Due to Shutting Off of Illegal Practices by the Operation of the Registration Law, Also Partly to the Deliberate Disqualification of Many Voters Who Refused to Register.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—The following table shows revised figures on the state ticket:

Ralston (Dem.)	277,612
Beveridge (Prog.)	164,246
Durbin (Rep.)	144,108

Ralston's plurality is 113,366.

Reports on all the 100 members of the house and the twenty-five members of the senate elected show that the Democrats elected ninety-four members of the house, and all the senators. The Republicans elected five members of the house and the Progressives one. One or two errors were made in the earlier announcements of members elected to the house. The corrected list shows the Republicans elected Stephen Daugherty in Benton and Warren counties; E. G. Gilmore, in Knox; Jesse E. Eschbach in Kosciusko; William Newton in Lake county, and W. B. Van Horn in Lake and Newton counties. The Progressive elected is John W. Judkins of Wayne county. Twenty-five senators elected two years ago hold over, of whom fifteen are Democrats and ten Republicans, so that the next senate will consist of forty Democrats and ten Republicans.

The Socialists in Indiana polled over 36,000 votes, against a vote of 13,473 four years ago. The Prohibitionists polled something over 20,000 votes and the Socialist Labor party a little over a thousand. The vote in the state was more than 70,000 short of the total vote cast four years ago. This slump is attracting considerable attention among the politicians, and various explanations are offered. One reason advanced is that before the new voters' registration law went into effect there was always considerable illegal voting in Indiana, and that this illegal voting ran the total vote up to a higher figure than was justified by actual conditions. It is said by some that there were not in reality 721,127 legal voters in Indiana four years ago, although that number of votes was cast. They say that if the illegal votes in Marion, Lake, Vigo and other counties had been deducted the figures then would have shown about the actual number of legal voters in the state. This year, however, the registration law put a stop to that kind of election practice, and it is believed that the number of illegal votes cast in Indiana was nominal as compared with former years.

Another reason advanced by some is that there was an unexpected apathy among the voters this year. In spite of the heated campaign and the vigorous efforts put forth by all the parties, it is pointed out that thousands of voters failed to vote at the election.

It is said, too, that something like 50,000 to 55,000 qualified voters failed to register and therefore were barred from voting. A part of this failure to register was said to be due to misunderstanding of the law, some of it to indifference and some of it to pique on the part of those voters who felt humiliated at being required to register after they had lived and voted in their communities for many years. The total registration of voters in Indiana at the three registration sessions this year was about 743,000.

SON IS HELD

Guy Stuart Charged With Murder of His Father, Dr. Stuart, at Fortville.

Fortville, Ind., Nov. 9.—Dr. Almon A. Stuart, fifty-one years old, who was found dying in his doorway here from the effect of a gunshot wound in the breast, is believed to have been killed as the result of what is said to have been a duel in the dark with his son Guy, thirty years old. The son is under arrest and is now held without bail in the county jail at Greenfield. While young Stuart has made no confession, he told the constable who arrested him that he had had trouble with his father. He made similar statements to close friends after his arrest. The prisoner's friends say he will be able to prove he shot in self-defense.

There had been considerable trouble between father and son lately.

He Finally Waded Out.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 9.—William K. Helmick, aged forty-seven, a tailor, attempted to commit suicide by drowning in the Ohio river. Helmick waded into the water up to his chin three times, but each time lost his nerve and kept his head above water. He finally returned to shore.

TURKS PREPARE FOR A HOLY WAR

The Sheiks to Call Out Fanatic Tribesmen.

HORRORS OF THE CRUSADES

Hammered to the Last Ditch, Harassed by the Enemy Without and Disaffected Officers Within the Government, the Elder Turkish Statesmen Announce Intention to Fight to End, and Let Christians Beware.

London, Nov. 9.—The decisive battle of the war is being fought across the line of the Tchataldja defenses, the last to be taken before Constantinople. The Tchataldja fort itself the key to the whole defensive work has fallen, but the half starved Ottomans are still holding grimly to the remaining defenses while Constantinople awaits the outcome with despair.

It does not now seem as if anything can stop the victorious advance of the Bulgars, and the commanders of the foreign warships outside the sultan's city are gravely concerned over the ominous possibility of wholesale massacres when the beaten Ottomans return to the city they could not defend. Then it is feared will come the knifing of the Christians and the burning and wholesale pillaging on the part of the troops who have fought without food for days and have grown desperate. The report that Kurd tribesmen are hastening toward the capital to play their part in those final days has not served to lighten the general alarm.

In reference to the danger of massacre at Constantinople, one correspondent says he is informed on reliable authority that the ambassadors pointed out to their governments the great danger that would follow the arrival of the defeated Turkish army fleeing to Constantinople. The powers accordingly made representations at Sofia and received a reply that the Bulgarian commanders would never allow the beaten Ottoman forces to break away to the northward. This, it is stated, has been the intention of Bulgaria all the way through. Meantime all the embassies will be protected, although there is no outward indication of this. The Greek patriarchate has been given a guard of fifty soldiers. This same correspondent hears that Adrianople is in a state of rebellion. The Turkish soldiers, it is said, are flatly refusing to fight and the Bulgarians have captured many provision trains.

There is grave dissatisfaction in Constantinople among the officers, 750 of whom have refused to obey the army authorities. The government has decided to replace all the military commanders at Tchataldja on the ground that every one of them has proved to be incapable. From all the older statesmen has come the word that Islam will fight to the last. The sultan and his advisors have flung down the ultimatum and there is rumor that the sheiks are ordering a holy war.

A dispatch from Constantinople confirms the previous report of the Greek occupation of Salonika, and says the approach of the Greeks was attended by awful scenes. Before they entered the town a terrible massacre of the non-Moslem population took place, and the shooting and looting was general. When the Greeks took possession they imprisoned all the pashas, officials and Turkish officers. The Turks now in captivity at Salonika number 27,000 men. The Greek fleet is now transporting troops to the eastward of the Maritza river in order to enable them to fall upon the fortifications of the Dardanelles and Gallipolis and also to open for a fleet a free passage to Constantinople. The Greek plan of campaign is to join eventually with the Bulgarians and enter Constantinople simultaneously with them.

Tchataldja with its dreary wastes furnished an ideal setting for the last great act of a war which may break forever the Turkish power in Europe. Abdullah Pasha's battered army has retreated until it cannot retreat any further. A wall of bayonets, feeble though it be, now intervenes between the fugitive force and the approaches to the capital. Its headlong, disordered flight has been arrested by the action of the government. The ministers have mustered what raw levies they could and have sent them to hold the roads converging on San Stefano. Stamboul's survivors of Abdullah's forces therefore find themselves at bay, caught between the Bulgarian Charybdis and the Turkish Scylla.

UNCLE SAM IS TO BE ON LOOKOUT

Two Cruisers Dispatched to Turkish Waters.

AMERICANS TO BE PROTECTED

In View of What Promises to Be a Veritable Reion of Anarchy Upon Prospective Fall of Constantinople, President Taft Has Ordered the Montana and the Tennessee to the Bosphorus With All Possible Speed.

Washington, Nov. 9.—In anticipation of the fall of the Turkish capital, two United States warships will join the international squadrons now gathering before Constantinople. President Taft, after consultation with his cabinet, directed that the armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana proceed at once to the Mediterranean. They left the Philadelphia navy yard today and should reach Constantinople in about eighteen days.

The declared purpose of this move on the part of the president is to afford Americans in both Turkey in Europe and Turkey in Asia means of protection and refuge.

There are many Americans in both eastern and western Turkey. At Beirut and Smyrna in Asia Minor there is a large number of American missionaries and educators. It is fully recognized here that not only is the Balkan crisis the matter which more immediately concerns the European powers, but also their representatives at the Turkish capital are prepared to take every step necessary for the protection of their nations and their interests. For this reason Ambassador Rockhill has been instructed to act only in co-operation with his European colleagues in any measures he may take for the protection of Americans in Turkey.

Advices received here indicate that the fate of Constantinople will be settled in a comparatively short time, probably before the Tennessee and Montana can reach that city. As it is understood that the Turks intend, if Constantinople is lost, to move over into Asia Minor, it is feared that Americans in that region may be endangered. For this reason it is expected that the American cruisers will find their principal task, not at Constantinople, but at other ports. Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight will be in charge of the American squadron.

The fact that this government is sending two light cruisers instead of two dreadnoughts is expected to make plain to the world the fact that the president's action is purely for purposes of affording protection to Americans should his course be called in question. The government will not seek to participate in the international conference which is expected to follow the fighting between Turkey and the allies. It is not expected that the United States will even be invited to take part in the expected conference on the Balkans.

Entire County Solid For Taft.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 9.—It is believed that Zapata county, situated far down in the Rio Grande border region of Texas, is the champion Taft county of the United States. There were 375 votes cast in the county at the election Tuesday, and every one of them was for Taft presidential electors. Four years ago the same county cast a solid vote for Taft. All but five voters in Zapata county are Mexican-American citizens.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

President Taft's cabinet will remain intact until he goes out of office on March 4.

Former President Arosemena of Panama is coming to the United States for a trip of rest and recreation.

The money trust probe will be resumed by the Pujo committee of the house of representatives on Nov. 20.

The mail car on a Louisville & Nashville passenger train was robbed of a sum believed in excess of $40,000, by two bandits in Alabama.

Mrs. Mary Adair has just sold her million-acre ranch near Clarendon, Tex. The consideration is reported to be more than $10,000,000.

The small uprising in Liberia, which caused orders to the German warship Panther to proceed immediately to that country, has subsided as quickly as it arose.

News from Colombia tells of great floods along the Cauca river. A portion of the Cauca railway has been destroyed. Fortunately only a few lives were lost.

A change in style in office furniture for the house of representatives is in contemplation similar to that in the British house of commons, a combination desk and bench instead of the separate desks and swivel chairs now used.

General Jose Maria Valladeres was shot to death on the streets of San Juan Del Sur in Nicaragua. The taking off of this notorious character will do much to restore peace in Honduras, where he has fomented many uprisings.

Getting Jury in Gunmen's Case.

New York, Nov. 9.—The work of selecting the jury who are to decide whether or not Dago Frank Cirofici, Lefty Louie Rosenberg, Whitey Lewis (Frank Muller), and Gyp the Blood (Harry Horowitz), jointly are guilty of the actual killing of Herman Rosenthal, is going forward speedily. The four gunmen continued to express their confidence that they "will be out of here in two weeks."

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

GOVERNOR WILSON IS A CAREFUL LISTENER

But Has Nothing to Say About His Plans.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—The fact that Democrats in congress and business men throughout the country are industriously speculating and giving their opinions on the matter of an immediate revision of the tariff was called to the attention of President-elect Wilson. When that fact was mentioned to him he declared that he was aware of it and that the discussion was interesting, but beyond that he gave no indication of any attitude other than that of the careful listener.

"Have you seen the statements of Mr. Underwood and other leaders in the party who favor the calling of an extra session immediately you take office?" the governor was asked.

"Yes," he said. "It is very interesting. I have also seen a number of editorials urging it."

And this was all that he would say. The governor is busy answering telegrams and letters. No more conclusive evidence than these messages could be had as to the general confidence in him and the methods it is thought he will adopt to bring about the reforms to which he is pledged.

A telegram from John Wanamaker was typical of the rest. He said: "There is a citizenship above party and an old personal friendship for you that calls out this expression of good will with the assurance of my earnest support for all good works you do as president of our great country."

Another telegram was from Eugene Chafin, Prohibition candidate for president, who said: "I move we make it unanimous."

NO USE TO HOLD THAT MEETING, HILLES SAYS

Republican Committee Will Not Get Together.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The meeting of the Republican national committee scheduled for next Tuesday in Chicago has been called off by Chairman Hilles, who with United States Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts conferred with President Taft at the White House last night until a late hour. The two Republican leaders discussed with the president some details as to the winding up of the campaign affairs. The question of a nominee for vice president and the future of the Republican party were also discussed.

The impression prevailing here is that Chairman Hilles has called off the Chicago meeting of the Republican national committee because it was held to be best to allow the Taft electors to exercise their own judgment as to a vice presidential nominee without suggestion from the national committee. Furthermore, it would seem somewhat ludicrous to call forty-eight national committeemen together to act for the guidance of the eight electors from Utah and Vermont.

Boy's Astonishing Act.

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 9.—Charles Haines, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haines, lay down on the track in front of a passenger train at Sidney and was decapitated. Persons who witnessed the tragedy say the boy walked to the side of the track east of the station and placed his neck across the rails. The engineer of the passenger train made every effort to stop, but was unable to do so in time to save the boy's life.

TOTALS IMMENSE SUM

$366,000,000 YEARLY LOST TO WORKERS THROUGH ILLNESS.

Death Toll of Vocational Accidents and Diseases Also Heavy, According to Labor Bureau.

Three men have been killed and two others made blind in this state by varnishing with wood alcohol the interiors of closed, unventilated beer vats, so it is reported by the state department of labor. The department is entering on a campaign to prevent occupational diseases and accidents, the majority of which, it is said, are due to ignorance and carelessness.

More than $336,000,000 was lost in wages through 13,400,000 cases of sickness among wage earners in the United States last year, according to a booklet on industrial diseases now being mailed by the department to the 14,000 physicians, hospitals and dispensaries in the state.

Attention is called to the fact that for the purpose of preventing so much of these diseases as are directly due to harmful and avoidable industrial processes, reports of certain diseases of occupation are now by law required to be filed with the department by physicians practicing in the state.

According to the booklet, "special uses of nerves and muscles bring about their definite occupational diseases in the operation and control of machinery, and special strains result from lack of variety in work, from concentration and from the haste involved in competition, or speeding up."

Paul Kennady, secretary of the New York Association for Labor Legislation, said:

"Working men, women and children are killed and disabled by thousands every year in the United States by diseases because they are forced to the use of harmful and avoidable methods of manufacture. A tithe of the ingenuity we use in cheapening production, if applied to the problem of making our industries decently safe, would save this needless and cruel sacrifice."—New York World.

WORKED WAY TO THE FRONT

Chicago Boy, in Attaining His Ambition, Has Shown What Honest Purpose May Effect.

The theory often propounded that a boy without money never has a chance, was disproved when it was discovered that Talmage G. Latham, who for five years has been employed as waiter in Chicago cafes, has just been appointed to the United States consular service at Washington.

Latham started for Washington immediately after receiving word of his appointment. He received his master's degree from the Northwestern University law school in June. He also has a bachelor's degree to his credit from the same institution.

Latham is twenty-four years old. Six years ago he arrived in Chicago without a cent in his pockets. He procured a job as waiter and worked and saved what little money he could. When he had a sufficient sum he matriculated at Northwestern university and started on the road to knowledge.

"You don't have to become a slave," said Latham. "But, on the other hand, you can't afford to waste your time seeing the sights of the city. If a young man really wants an education he can get it, and it won't seem so very hard to him, either. The trouble is most of them don't want it. They wouldn't take a chance if they had one."—St. Paul Dispatch.

Gentlemen:

The prints which you sent us a few days ago, which were submitted in the contest of your amateur club, have been carefully examined by a committee chosen in this office, and we are today making our decision. It has been very difficult for us to make a choice of the first and second best prints, because, taken as a whole we believe the prints submitted have attained to a high standard of excellence.

There are several others, indeed, which we considered for first and second places in the competition, but after considerable deliberation, we have fixed upon the two sent you today.

We wish to congratulate the members of your club on the ability as photographers displayed by them in this contest.

HONAN FILES REPORT

Attorney General Collected $22,243.42 During Term.

Attorney General Honan yesterday completed his biennial report containing a synopsis of legal opinions given, a list of criminal and civil cases pending and disposed of in the Supreme Court and the receipts and disbursements of the office. The report covers the period from Oct. 1, 1910, to Sept. 30, 1912, and includes the last three months of former Attorney General Bingham's term.

Fifty-nine suits were filed by former Attorney General Bingham growing out of investigation of accounts of public officers by the state board of accounts. The public accounting law was afterward so amended by the Legislature of 1911 that suits were placed in charge of prosecuting attorneys of counties in which the same were filed, and all new reports were certified by the state board of accounts to the Governor and by him to the attorney general. Since the amendment of 1911, Mr. Honan has certified to prosecuting attorneys 224 reports made by the state board of accounts.

A report is given of all collections and disbursements made by Mr. Bingham from Sept. 30, 1910, to Jan. 1, 1911, and by Mr. Honan from Jan. 1, 1911, to Sept. 30, 1912. The collections, amounting to $16,066.55, made by Mr. Bingham, were as follows: Unclaimed estates, $3,677.11; unclaimed fees, $4,764.64; costs recovered in litigation, $290.40; state fines, $7,317; transcript fees, $17.50. Collections made by Mr. Honan were $22,243.42. They include: Unclaimed estates, $6,231.11; unclaimed fees, $1,825.20; money collected through litigation, $9,099.24; state fines, $5,087.87.

The expenditures of the office during 1911 amounted to $21,063.78; and for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1912, were $20,806.45. The annual expense for salaries of the attorney general, four deputies and two clerks is $18,900. During the last two years the attorney general has approved of the articles of incorporation of nineteen insurance companies.

Is the Church Making Good?

By CHARLES STELZLE

IS the church losing its grip upon the life of the nation? Look at a few figures. In 1800 only seven persons out of every 100 of the total population in this country were members of the church. In 1850 there were fifteen in every hundred; in 1870, seventeen; in 1880, twenty; in 1890, twenty-two; in 1900, twenty-four; in 1910, twenty-four. There seems to be a crisis on just now. The chart shows that from 1900 to 1910 both the increase in population and in church membership was the same. It's a tie! What will the next decade show? It's rather unsafe to prophesy. But meanwhile what should be the outcome? Is the church as an institution worth supporting? Let's be frank about the matter. The church was not created by priests and ministers. It grew out of the natural religious instincts of the people, for every man is naturally religious. The persistence of religious institutions shows that they are factors of importance in the life of the community. For many the church is the most powerful of all the agents of social control. Its place or

"Evangelizing the World"

WHICH?

among social institutions is unique. From this standpoint alone the best interests of society will be better served by strengthening the church instead of bettering it down, and as all social questions are fundamentally moral and religious the religious element in the church cannot be dispensed with. As a matter of fact, the church does its best work in the realm of idealism.

Josh Billings once said, "Before you can have an honest horse race you must have an honest human race." There's lots of horse sense in this expression. Before you can have an ideal social system you must have ideal men. It's the chief business of the church to develop such men—men with muscle and mind and morals, men who will fight for the right and a square deal. Those who believe in the general proposition that it's better to have strong men than weak, educated men instead of ignorant, good men instead of bad, might well sincerely look into the matter as to how the church is working out its job.

CABINET DOPESTERS GIVEN NO COMFORT

President-Elect Sits Down On All Idle Gossip.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 8.—When the president-elect told the newspaper correspondents that he was perfectly capable of selecting his own family of departmental advisers and intended to do so, those who have been making cabinets for President-elect Wilson were jolted.

"Such speculations," he said, referring to the list of cabinet officials that had been prepared in every town where the wisecracks could get the ear of a reporter, "are perfectly fruitless. I mean to keep my mind entirely open with regard to appointments of the first consequence.

"It will be perfectly useless to resort to me for corroboration of any report, because I shall have absolutely nothing to announce. No announcement will have the least authority which is not made over my signature. These are matters which must be determined by very deliberate counsel, and not by gossip."

THIS LADY'S GOOD APPETITE

Mrs. Hansen, in a Letter From Mobile, Tells How She Gained It.

Mobile, Ala.—"I suffered for seven years, with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. Sigurd Hansen in a letter from this city. "I felt weak and always had a headache and was always going to the doctor. At last I was operated on, and felt better, but soon I had the same trouble.

My husband asked me to try Cardui. I felt better after the first bottle, and now, I have a good appetite and sleep well. I feel fine, and the doctor tells me I am looking better than he ever saw me."

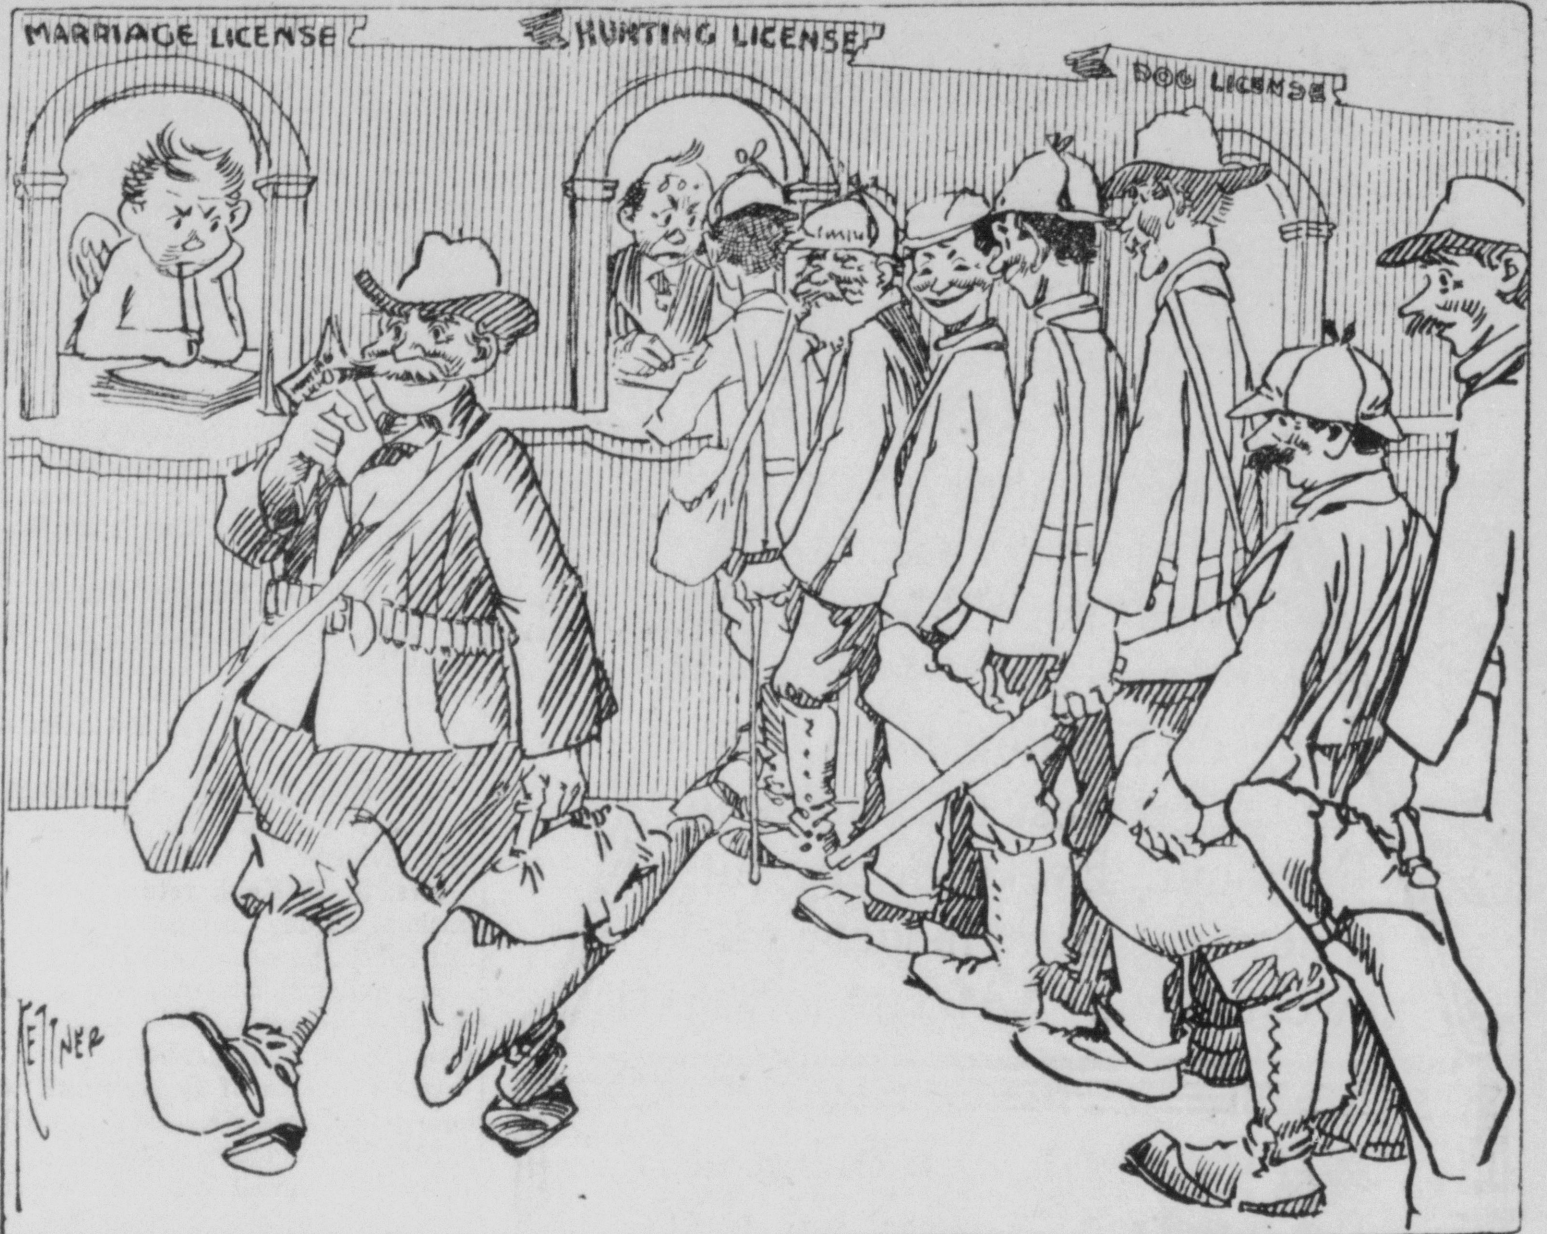

If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardui.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients that have been found to act curatively on the womanly constitution.

For more than fifty years, it has been used by women of all ages, with great success. Try it. Your druggist sells it.

POWER.

I have learned that every appetite except the appetite for duty must be subdued and enchained and clamped to the utmost restriction if you would have success come to you.—David Belasco.

Not long ago I stood on the banks of the Mississippi, near Keokuk, where the giant dam, costing several million dollars, is being completed.

The work is second only to that of the Panama canal, and when the waters are harnessed thousands of horse power will be utilized.

Looking at the army of men, the great dredges and cranes and the locomotives, and thinking of the expenditure of money and labor and nervous energy, one naturally asks, Why?

Power! And what is power? Nobody knows. The engineers know how to get it, but they do not know what it is.

How do they get it? By restricting the flow of the waters. The electrical forces are generated by piling up the waters and pouring them into a turbine. Left free, the power escapes.

It is so with humans. They get power only by restricting themselves. He who by "subdued, enchained and clamped restrictions" limits himself, denies himself, becomes powerful.

There is no other way. The difficult way is the successful way. You pay the price of selfhood by denying self.

If only the young could see this! They want the easy way. They choose the line of least resistance because they shrink from the pang of self sacrifice. They want ease and indulgence and lassitude and the sunshine way.

Only that is worth while which is hard to get.

When some poor youth struggles upward to success we are surprised, when as a matter of fact we should expect it. Having his way to make, the poor youth restricts every appetite but that of duty, and he develops power, character, success.

Do you want power? It must come through hardship and self denial, by subduing unwholesome appetites, by restricting yourself to your one chosen field of endeavor. Power comes by restraint.

A MOVEMENT TOWARD BETTER SANITATION

Health Department Getting After the Railroads.

Washington, Nov. 9.—According to officers of the service here, some radical changes in the sanitary equipment of trains will be ordered by the United States public health service as soon as practical conditions can be devised. Under the law health surgeons are empowered to inspect all trains and report on the conditions they find. Reports show that filthy conditions prevail in a large number of passenger cars and stations.

Public health officers say that the lack of sanitary devices on trains makes it possible for a single victim of a contagious disease in a journey from New York to San Francisco to pollute all the watersheds in the country.

Railroads will be ordered to change the equipment of their trains as soon as the public health service can make regulations. Heavy fines may be inflicted for all violations of such regulations. It was stated that the railroads are anxious to conform to the new regulations. Their officers say they have welcomed the new order abolishing drinking cups on trains. Any railroad disobeying the order may be fined $500 for each violation, but the treasury department officers say they will not press prosecutions until the roads have full opportunity to change their drinking water equipment to conform with the new rule.

The Mystery
By Wilbur D. Nesbit

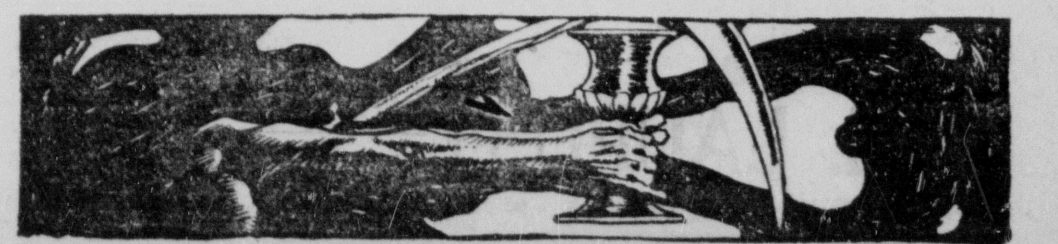

"There shalt be two in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left."—Matthew xxiv, 40.

Into the halls of state,
Past warders of the great,
Into the hovel dark
Where woe has set its mark,
There comes a messenger
Then hastens on.
None hears his raiment stir—
But one is gone.

He calls the great and least,
Starving, and those who feast,
Waking, and those who sleep,
Laughing, and those who weep—
None knows the reason why;
None understands;
We may but, with a sigh,
Unclasp our hands.

Gifts in his hand he brings,
Gifts for the hinds and kings,
Paupers their rags throw down,
Kings drop the robe and crown
And for this gift of his
All these exchange—
And their calm smiling is
Rapt, still and strange.

Birth is a mystery,
Life gives no one its key—
But this dim messenger,
This ceaseless wanderer,
What does he call us to
When we are gone?
What brings he to our view,
Sunset, or dawn?

CHAPTER IX.
The Storm Breaks.

THE sensation which the district attorney sprang in the sudden indictment of the president of the Iroquois company was profound and far-reaching. The day before the indictment was presented to the grand jury stocks began to tumble without any apparent cause.

When the warrant for the arrest of the great man had been served, and he was admitted to bail to await his coming trial, there was a feeble rally in the market, but the rats quickly began to desert a sinking ship. The president under indictment had ceased to be a power. There was a wild scramble of his associates who were equally guilty to save their own skins. The press, which at first denounced Stuart, now boldly demanded the merciless prosecution of all the guilty, and they hailed the brilliant young district attorney as the coming man.

For six consecutive days stocks had fallen with scarcely an hour's temporary rally. Every effort of the bull operators, who had ruled the market for the two years past, to stem the tide was futile. Below the surface, in the silent depths of growing suspicion and fear, an army of sappers and miners under the eye of one man were digging at the foundations of the business world—the faith of man in his fellow man.

Each day there was a crash, and each day the little financier and his unscrupulous allies marked a new victim. In the midst of the campaign for the destruction of public credit which Bivens and his associates, the Allied Bankers, were conducting with such profound secrecy and such remarkable results, when their profits had piled up into millions, a bomb was suddenly exploded under their own headquarters.

The Van Dam Trust company was put under the ban of the New York clearing house. The act was a breach of faith, utterly unwarranted by any known law of the game. But it was done.

When the president of the company walked quietly into Bivens' office and made the announcement for a moment the little dark man completely lost his nerve. Cold beads of sweat started from his swarthy forehead.

"There must be some mistake."

"There's no mistake. It's a blow below the belt, but it's a knockout for the moment. They know we are solvent, two dollars for one. But they know we have $90,000,000 on deposit, and we have some big enemies. They know that the group we have supported have smashed this market, and they've set out to fight the devil with fire. They're determined to force a showdown and see how much real money is behind us. We can pull through if we stand together."

Bivens sprang to his feet, exclaiming fiercely:

"Until hell freezes over!"

The banker smiled feebly for the first time in a week.

"Then it's all right, Mr. Bivens. We'll pull through. They'll start a run on us tomorrow. Five millions in cash will meet it, and we'll win hands down. We have powerful friends. Our only sin is our association with your group. We must have that five millions in the safe before the doors are opened tomorrow."

"You shall have it," was the firm answer.

With a cheerful pressure of the hand the president of the Van Dam Trust company left, and Bivens called his secretary.

"We turn the market tomorrow—orders to all our men. Knock the bottom out of it until the noon hour, then turn and send it skyward with a bound."

When Dr. Woodman returned home that night from one of his endless tramps among the poor Harriet opened the door.

Something about the expression of his face startled her. For the first time in her life she saw in its gaunt lines the shadow of despair.

"What is it, papa, dear?" she asked tenderly, slipping an arm about his neck as she drew him down into his favorite chair.

"What, child?" he responded vaguely.

"You look utterly worn out. Tell me what's the matter. I'm no longer a child. I'm a woman now—strong and well and brave. Let me help you."

"You do help me, baby!" he laughed, with an effort at his old time joyous spirit. "Every time I touch your little hand you give me new life. Some day your voice will thrill thousands as it now thrills my heart. You'll win fame and wealth for your father. You shall care for him in old age. I'm not miserable. I've really had a good day. I've spent the whole afternoon superintending the distributing of flowers among the hospitals. I saved a kid's life with a flower. His father used to work for me in the old days. They asked me to come to see him. There was no hope. He had been given up to die. I gave him a fragrant white pink. His thin, feverish fingers grasped it eagerly. In all his life he had never held a flower in his hand before. He pressed it to his lips, his soul thrilled at its sweet odor, and the little tired spirit came staggering back from the mists of eternity just to see what it meant. He will live."

The girl's arms slipped around his neck in a tightening hold, and she pressed her cheek against his a moment in silence.

"Papa, dear, it's no use trying to deceive me. I've the right to know what is troubling you. I'm not a child. You must tell me."

"Why, it's nothing much, dearie," he answered gently. "I'm worried a little about money. I've a note due at the bank, and they've called on me unexpectedly to meet it. But I'll manage somehow."

"I'll give up my music, go to work and help you right away."

The father placed his hand gently over her lips, and the tears sprang into his eyes in spite of his effort to keep them back.

"Don't talk sacrilege, my child. Such words are blasphemy. God gave me a man's body for the coarse work of bread winning. He gave you the supreme gift, a voice that throbs with eloquence, a power that can lift and inspire the world."

"Promise me, dear—it's the one wish of my heart, the one thing worth working and struggling for—promise me that you will never stop until the training of your voice is complete; that no matter what happens you will obey me in this. It is my one command. You will obey me?"

"Yes, papa, I promise, if it will make you happy."

"It's the only thing I live for. All I ask is that you do your level best with the gift of God."

"I'll try, papa dear," was the quiet answer as she kissed him again and softly left the room.

Harriet had scarcely reached her room when Adams, the cashier of one of the allied banks, who owed the doctor for three months' rent, entered the library with quick, nervous tread.

"I've news, sir," he said excitedly. "I've a big tip on the stock market."

The older man grunted contemptuously.

"Yes, that's what ails you, I know. You've been getting them for some time. That's why you owe me for your rooms. That's why there's something the matter with your accounts."

"I swear to you, doctor, my accounts are clean. I've bought a few stocks. I've made a little and lost a little. I've got the chance now I've been waiting for. I've a real piece of information from the big insiders who are going to make the market tomorrow. I got it from Bivens' private secretary. The little weasel has made millions on this break, and he has been selling the market short for two weeks. Tomorrow morning he is going to smash it for the last time and at noon throw his millions on the bull side. The market will go down three points on the break in the morning. It will jump five points in ten minutes when it turns the other way. There are stocks on the list that will recover ten points before the market closes."

"Bivens is going to do this?" the older man interrupted. "Then it's a trick. It's a lie. Take my advice and do just the opposite from what you understand. Bivens will sell out his partners in the deal."

"Man, he can't sell out!" the cashier insisted. "It's his own deal. He's in it for all he's worth!"

The doctor rose with sudden excitement.

"Adams, this is the first time in my life I've ever been tempted to buy stocks. I'm in desperate need of money. I've a note for $3,000 due. I've $2,000 set aside to finish my little girl's musical studies. I've got to meet that note somehow, and I've got to have the money for her. It looks like a chance. I'll go in and watch the market tomorrow."

"If it don't act exactly as I say don't touch it. If it does, go in for all you're worth. If stocks start down as I say they will, sell short, cover at noon and they buy for a rise. Don't listen to fools—just buy, buy, buy! You can sell before the market closes and make $20,000."

"I'll drop into a broker's office and watch the market open, anyway. Adams. Thank you."

The next day the more optimistic traders on the stock exchange expected a change in the market. Stocks had declined for two weeks with appalling swiftness and fatality. Every hour had marked the ruin of men hitherto bulwarks of solidity. Experienced men reasoned and reasoned from experience that there must be a turn somewhere. The bottom surely had been reached. The time for a rally had come.

Stuart slept late. He was up until 1 o'clock writing a reply to a peculiarly venomous attack on his integrity which a morning paper had printed. The writer had boldly accused him of being the hired tool of the group of financial cutthroats who were coining millions out of the ruin of others in the destruction of public faith.

His reply was simple, and his concluding paragraph was unanswerable except by an epithet.

"My business is the enforcement of justice. I am the servant of the people. If Wall street cannot stand the enforcement of law so much the worse for the street. It is no affair of mine."

Dr. Woodman hurried downtown to the office of a friend on Pine street, an old fashioned banker and broker whose

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

"If you've got a dollar, nail it up." name had always stood for honesty and fair dealing and conservative business. It was half an hour before the stock exchange opened, but the dingy little office was packed with an excited crowd of customers.

The doctor followed old Dugro, the head of the firm, into his private office and asked his advice. He got it—sharp, short and to the point.

"Go home, doctor, and stay there. This market is no place for an amateur. It's all I can do to keep the wolf from my door in these days."

"But I've received some important information."

"Keep it dark," old Dugro scowled. "Don't tell it to your worst enemy. If you've got a dollar, nail it up and sleep on the box."

"But I've some information I think I'm going to act on and I want to open a small account with you."

"All right. I've warned you," was the grim answer. "I wish you good luck."

The doctor drew his check for $2,000 and smilingly took his place among the crowd before the board.

The ticker would tell the story in the first hour. If stocks should sell off three points before noon, he would know. He determined to put this to the test first. He would not sell the market short. He would be content with the big jump the market would make upward when it started.

As the noon hour drew near the doctor's heart was beating like a sledge hammer. Bivens' program had been carried out to the letter. Stocks had declined for the first hour a point, and in the second hour suddenly smashed down two more points amid the wildest excitement on the exchange.

The moment to buy had come. The doctor was sure of it. Stocks had touched bottom. The big bear pool would turn bull in a moment and the whole market would rise by leaps and bounds.

He called old Dugro.

"Buy for me now Amalgamated Copper, the market leader, for all I'm worth."

The broker glared at him.

"Buy! Buy in this market? Man, are you mad?"

"I said buy!" was the firm answer.

"What's the limit?"

"Not a share without a stop loss or order under it."

"Well, with the stop?"

"I'll buy you 400 shares on a four point stop."

"And when it goes up five points?" the doctor asked eagerly.

"I'll double your purchase and raise your stop, and every five points up I'll keep on until you are a millionaire!"

The old broker smiled contemptuously, but it was all lost on the doctor.

"Do it quick."

The order was scarcely given before it was executed. Dugro handed the memorandum to Woodman with a grunt.

"It don't take long to get 'em today!" The words had scarcely left his lips when a hoarse cry rose from the crowd hanging over the ticker.

Copper had leaped upward a whole point between sales. A wild cheer swept the room. For ten minutes every stock on the list responded and began to climb.

The doctor's face was wreathed in smiles. Men began to talk and laugh and feel human for the first moment in two weeks.

Dugro grasped the doctor's hand, and his deep voice rang above the roar:

"You're a mascot! You've broken the spell! For God's sake stay with us!"

Suddenly another cry came from the crowd at the ticker. The boy at the board sprang to the instrument with a single bound, his eyes blazing with excitement. His cry of "Down!" pierced every ear in the room with horror.

The panic had come.

In ten minutes stocks tumbled five points, and the doctor's last dollar was swept into space, while the whole market plunged down, down, down into the abyss of ruin and despair.

Men no longer tried to conceal their emotion. Some wept, some cursed, some laughed; but the most pitiful sight of all was the man who could do neither, the man with white lips and the strange, hunted expression in his eyes who was looking death in the face for the first time.

A full quarter of an hour of the panic had spent itself before the dazed crowds in the broker's offices read the startling news that caused the big break. The ticker shrieked its message above the storm's din like a little laughing demon.

"The Van Dam Trust Company Has Closed Its Doors and Asked For the Appointment of a Receiver!"

Bivens had not kept his solemn pledge. The great bank had stood the run for two hours and closed its doors. And the work of destruction had just begun.

At 3 o'clock the doctor walked out of Dugro's office without a dollar. He felt almost happy by contrast with the fools he left shuffling over the floors of Dugro's office.

His own sense of loss was merely a blur. The revelation he had just had of the mad lust for money which had begun to possess all classes was yet so fresh and startling he could form no adequate conception of his own position.

It was not until he entered his own door and paused at the sound of Harriet's voice that he began to realize the enormity of the tragedy that had befallen him.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

THE CHURCHES.

Nazarene.

The Willow Valley Evangelist has arrived and preached a most excellent sermon to a very attentive audience, at the Church of the Nazarene last night. God says in Eph. 4:11, 12 "And He some Apostles; and some Prophets; and some Evangelists; and some pastors and teachers, for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ."

We certainly are opposed to much of the card signing, easy going popular evangelism that is in our land today but we do most heartily indorse and welcome to our church a spirit filled, God sent Evangelist, with a burning message on his heart, who, without compromise to the fear or favor of man, preaches a full Gospel.

Such an Evangelist is a blessing in any city, and in any church. God is unchangeable and His command to repent, which involves godly sorrow for sin and making old wrongs right, is just as imperative today, as it ever was in the history of the world and unless we meet his conditions, we will suffer the fearful consequences of sin, which is eternal death. He says, "The wicked shall be turned into hell with all nations that forget God."

There will be three services at the Nazarene church tomorrow.

Sunday School 9:30. Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 in the evening by Evangelist Rev. Harding. Great peoples meeting in the afternoon. Street meeting tonight. To all of these services you are most cordially invited.

M. T. Brandyberry, Pastor.

Christian Church.

Bible School at 9:30 a. m. Every member of the church and school is needed in this service. The Bible School ought to be the entire church studying the Bible. We are anxious to meet you at the Bible School hour.

The young Mens' Bible class will meet at the church with the main school tomorrow, instead of meeting at the library as it has been doing. Please remember this.

Our revival will begin with the morning service. Communion, and preaching at 10:30 a. m. We are expecting great things in this meeting and that means that every member must stand in his or her place, and do what they can, and all that they can.

We have secured a very fine music director for this meeting, Prof. Otis E. Watson of English, Ind. We had a good chorus last night and will have another meeting of the choir tonight. And all who will help us in the singing will be made welcome. Sunday evening at 7:15 the song service will begin and the pastor will preach upon "The Dream of Nebuchadnezzar." This will be the opening sermon in a series upon the Prophecy of the Bible and the History of the World. Illustrated by large charts. These subjects will be interesting and entertaining.

In order to get the good that one ought to, you should hear and see each of these seven sermons.

Come and bring your friends.

Edward L. Pettus, Minister.
